

GOVT 'PROPAGANDA'

The president of Aboriginal Legal Aid in Sydney, Mr Paul Coe, believes the National Aboriginal Consultative Council will not be successful.

MR COE

"The NACC has no power of legislative review", he said.

"It can only make recommendations, and there is no guarantee they will be implemented by the Government".

The NACC elections were held over a week ago, but the results have yet to be announced.

Mr Coe said the NACC

was a "good exercise in political propaganda".

"The Whitlam Government is paying Aboriginals lip service", he said.
